Père Charles Dumont, Trappist monk of Scourmont and patristic scholar and editor, gave us a series of conferences on the great Cistercians, Saint Bernard, and Abelard, in March.

A six-week course in "the roots of Christian spirituality" was held here during the summer. Brother James Kelly was the director, and is shown here with Stephen McPherson, Father Paul Savage, and David Dewoody. Several members of the community provided conferences.

Father Martin and Father Paul Savage, a guest from Pittsburgh, tying up beans in vegetable garden.

"The Trees," resident of the cistern, the ginseng. SCott and Helen Nearing, authors of "Living the Good Life", were here with members of a Cornell University course in "Discipleship and Ecology", over an April weekend.
Mellen in the rose garden.

For the second year the Corning Rose Society, of which Mr. Mellen is president, met here for its June meeting and show. Bro. Luke, who is a consultant to the American Rose Society, won several ribbons.

Dr. Martin + John of Syracuse making music to celebrate the 4th of July.

A community of St. John's Wild City, two days in formal attire, which multitude Kundalini Yoga ritual
We are often asked about good readings and we would like to recommend:

C.H. Dodd: The Founder of Christianity (MacMillan, $1.45)
Bruce Chait: This Man Jesus (Doubleday, $4.95)
John C. Haughey: The Conspiracy of God (Doubleday, $4.95)
A. Squire: Asking the Fathers (Morehouse-Barlow, $5.95)
Monastic Studies/10 containing "Hospitality" by Henri Nouwen and other essays (Mt. Saviour, $5.00)

A flower arrangement by Br. Nicholas at the meeting of the Southern Tier Rose Society and the Corning Area and Three Rivers garden clubs.

Part of the $20,000 sand filtration system required by new New York state environmental laws. This enormous expense leads us to ask with special fervor for financial assistance through the Fall Festival.